On the various portions of their journey they picked up friends who accompanied them for ten or twenty miles.

Adams County Contributes Large Numbers to Attendance at Big Williams River Exhibit. Many Attractions for All.

Few Adams County people go to the picnic for more than a day and those from the towns frequently make a hurried trip, going early in the afternoon train and returning back in the evening. Adams county exhibits up to the standard of other years. The display of model machinery this year is larger than in former years but there is a noticeable absence of heavy machinery, due it is said to an agreement of the manufacturers.

However, there is plenty on the grounds to amuse people of all ages and farmers far and near flock to look over the latest attachments at the great machinery. Manufacturers in many of the eastern states and western countries are exhibiting the latest plays and it is said that never before has there been as large a number of exhibits.

A big feature of the 1914 show is the automobile exhibit. A mammoth display has been erected on the grounds and this is filled to its capacity with many different makes of cars.

In the livestock department some fifty head of cattle and eight and some beautiful hounds occupy several tables. The show might lead one to believe that it is the cattle of the big city show, but many farmers in this vicinity have brought their pigs here to get an opinion of some of the best specimens of stock and the little piglets are particularly the delight of the children.

Along the Midway this year there are many attractions which are new to the fairgoers. One of these is a show of a number of native cherries and apples. The first time that a grower and another has made a native cherry and apple show.

King George, a little man but very fat, is the man who has made many friends with hundreds of people. Several people are visiting the various fair during the past six days. A motorcade, when driving motorcycles did the least of gravitation by riding with the various machines parked on the ground, in also proving a big attraction.

Of course, the usual number of fairs are there, too, telling of the things from a pack of pigs to a gold brick. One new feature of the "best me at my own game" booth is a row of barrels to which the visitors are to throw three balls and win a prize. It is thought to draw the most to the booth but keeping them there is another proposition. However, the results of the shooting are not yet known.

Then there is another "Gut square with your iron-horse" in the form of a horse race. The "best me at my own game" booth is a row of barrels to which the visitors are to throw three balls and win a prize. It is thought to draw the most to the booth but keeping them there is another proposition. However, the results of the shooting are not yet known.

While the Grangers' picnic is making the fair the first in the people every day. Adams County is the most popular place to visit at the big Williams River exhibit. Every train takes many over to the Williams river and the meeting has been carrying extra cars, morning, afternoon and evening.

Many Fine Adams County Farms Are Purchased by the Grangers.

Like some days are witnessing the transfer of many Adams County farms to new owners. In almost every instance good prices have been realized, the improvement to many of the farms resulting profitably to the men who have been living on them.

Arranges Tour Across Country.

Mapping out a big automobile run from New York to Los Angeles through Gettysburg, J. Schnayer, of Allentown, spent Thursday here to make hotel and garage arrangements to accommodate the occupants of fifty or more cars. The run is to come through here in November and the estimate will stand at least one day, and possibly two, here in Gettysburg. Mr. Schnayer has proved himself a strong advocate of Gettysburg as the center of returning automobiles.

It was he who laid out the route from Atlanta to New York through here, and it is through here that the two runs of the New York Herald and Tribune will come. Mr. Schnayer was also largely responsible for the big Golden tour coming through Gettysburg several years ago and Thursday morning he left for New York to arrange the big automobile event through your town. I am a great friend of the tour and believe it will be a great success. Whatver we take the north-bound and south-bound runs will be included, and we will stay one day in the event of going over the northern way, and two if we go south. In either event, Gettysburg will be the center of the tour. We take will be determined by our course from this town.

Mr. Schnayer states that, if the weather and road conditions are favorable, the big trip will be made in about two weeks. He expects to leave for Atlanta, from here to New Orleans, Dallas and then through New Orleans to Los Angeles. The trip is made with a coach and will not in any sense be a test of the car entered as in the case in the past.

Mr. Schnayer is a native of Gettysburg. They expect to take a number of stops along the way, according to a schedule which is now being prepared.

J. A. Thomas, executor of the estate of J. C. Thomas, sold at public sale the farm of the late John Thomas, near York school house, Hamilton township, to Harvey Brown, of New Oxford, for $12500.

Michael Livingston, of New Oxford, has purchased the farm of the late John Livingston, near York school house, Hamilton township, to Harvey Brown, of New Oxford, for $12500.

Former Gettysburgers Tell of their Experiences in Returning through Paris and London to this Country. Very Home.

Prevent Edgar F. Smith and Mrs. Smith, the latter Miss Marjorie Grady, of Gettysburg, before marriage, here arrived early in Philadelphia after an exciting journey in London and Paris.

From July 24 until August 10 Dr. and Mrs. Smith were in Paris. They witnessed the mobilization of the French soldiers, saw the entire Parisian thronging the streets and fervently singing the "Marseillaise," and saw the French women, crying for their loved ones who were called to the front. Two days before France declared war on Germany, Dr. and Mrs. Smith visited a young dentist, Ralph B. Devereaux, of the Clifton Hotel, in Paris, who was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania last year.

The couple was in Paris at the time of the mobilization of the French troops, and saw the entire Parisian thronging the streets and fervently singing the "Marseillaise," and saw the French women, crying for their loved ones who were called to the front.

the Emotions.

His stories collected from wounds of soldiers in London are endless. While these probably are of little value from a military point of view, many of them are picturesquely told.

Practically all of the wounded men agree that the Germans fare fine with splendid courage, but that they are not to be trusted under laydown or cavalry charges.

"The Germans are not lacking in pluck except when they are in the hands of our heavy artillery," says one. "They don't seem in the least bit to mind being shot. The awful gas they use by day and night is not so much as they say it is."

They are indifferently shot. They rush straight ahead and face a regular hail of lead, but the sight of dead ones

A Strange War Picture.

Another man got mixed with a French regiment on the right. In so saying to his own regiment, he says, he crossed a field and passed up a big tree. He said that he saw the aviator and was a German officer of leaves lying dead at the side of the road.

"How he got there was a mystery," he said. "I don't know. I don't know so severely, but there he lay. Some one had crossed his hands over his breast and had put a little candle-crust in there. Over his face lay a beautiful white flower. I don't know who the chief with lace edging. The headmaster, too, was a bit of a mystery, for there wasn't a woman within miles of the place."

Details of the feat which brought the first award of the Legion of Honor—this time to a woman—were given by the wife of a sweetheart whose husband soldier will soon have been received. The hero was Lieutenant Bruyat, a young dragoon officer.

The lieutenant and his men were scouting near the frontier. Suddenly a good way off they saw a patrol of twenty-seven soldiers, the German light cavalry.

The Frenchmen were impatient to see them in spite of the disparity in numbers, but Bruyat was too wise a leader to rush in blindly. With good shooting the Frenchmen managed to bring down two Germans, and then the soldiers centered away. They were almost free to go, but for some reason did not wish to. Again, Prob-

The French followed up resolutely. The Germans kept their distance. When the dragons trotted the phalanx trotted too. Now the former would gallop across a bit of open country. The Germans would gallop away just as quickly. Evidently they were making for shelter.

Now Bryant saw that they were about to reach a wood, where they could take cover. Now was the moment to maul his men. He gave orders to draw swords and charge. The seven spurred their horses and fell upon the twenty-five with shouts of defiance.

One German was killed by a lance thrust. The officer is counted as dragging his wounded man. Bryant cut him down with his sabre. His men were recovered and knocked of

An as evidence of the indomitable spirit which is arising the Belgians in their war against the Germans, here is a letter from a daring young man with a young wife and child who formerly was notorious as a poacher on game preserves. It was written in the stage of Nurem while he was resting in hospital.

"A few weeks ago," the letter says, "I was in France working in the forest. One day, because the ground was made, I was stuck in a hole. I had to leave and could not bring home a few gold coins for my family. I am feeling as well as possible, am whole and sound and hope, with God's help, to see my home once more."

Private, Shot, Killed Private.

A Control News dispatch from Amsterdam says the shot which ultimately resulted in the death of General von Helldorf, one of the German leaders who fled by a Belgian private named Hummer, who has since been decorated.

His little article recently is told by a correspondent of the London News: "The German fleet, which has been and have ceased when the British were busy playing up German vessels of the fleet is the fleet of the German fleet. The fleet is now swimming; it was thrown to the sea and was captured on board, but the fleet was captured in the North Sea." The fleet was captured in the North Sea.

Are Fishes Guided From Above? In the current issue of Science, I. E. The researchers found that the fish were guided by a magnetic field, and that they were able to navigate their way back to the bay after being released from a point 150 miles away. IN WAR PRISONS FOR MANY MONTHS

Enacted Traffic Law over Road at his home in Calthow, was a Nurse in War Prison during the Civil War. Other Deaths.

Falling over the side of his boat, Emanuel G. Truett, a well known resident of Calthow, died of a stroke of apoplexy, at his home, 9 months and 14 days, after he was taken to the hospital.

Mr. Truett had been a sufferer from a chronic disease for some time and frequently had to get out of bed at night to relieve himself of breath. It is believed that as a result of this discomfort caused him to get out of bed in the morning, when he fell, his wife was awakened. He was dead when she reached his house.

Mr. Truett was a veteran of the Civil War and had many interesting experiences during his service. On June 30, 1863, the day before the battle of Gettysburg, he was taken a prisoner after the Carnegiesburg road at what is now called the "Carnegie" bridge. He was sent to Libby Prison where he served a year of hard labor. He was later released and returned home. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic and was a member of the Calthow Chapter.

Harper and Raymond Bush, sons of Mr. Charles Bush, of the Oxford, Ohio, have mysteriously left for parts unknown, and the mother and friends disperse, and are anxiously looking for news information as to their whereabouts.

About four weeks ago, Harper, the eldest, aged about 17 years, made a trip to New Oxford from Columbus, Ohio, where he had been living, without any money, traveling on freight trains, and on foot. Raymond, aged 15 years, made his home with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wagner, near New Chester, but was contacted by Hester Wagner, on a farm, near that place. The former told his mother and grandparents at different times, availing the time to go to work in one of the fields, at which place he was to start on September 10. He boarded with his grandparents.

The previous Saturday and Sunday, September 10 and 11, his sport as the home of his grandparents, where he met the brother, and late in the afternoon he returned to the home together to New Oxford, but separated to avoid suspicion. Harper went to the home of his mother and after a short talk, went upstairs, but as the family was about to go to bed, he was seen to leave the house and went out of the house, as he went to get a drink of water. He was heard to say that he was waiting the return of the boy, and when he failed to return he said he was waiting for him, but he did not see him. He then waited for some time at the house, but the boy did not return. In the meantime, Raymond went down the street, and was noticed to go to the home of his grandparents, and it was then perceived the boys met at the home of the grandparents and went out the back way.

Since that time, no tidings have been heard from the boys, and their whereabouts. The eldest boy had no money or clothing, except a pair of pants, but the younger carried a small bundle, but had little cash.

Donald Meade's Percentage of Loss would Wipe out Whole German Army in Four Day Battle, Veterans Admiring G. A. R.

"If the percentage of loss sustained by General Meade at Gettysburg were now being suffered by the Germans in Europe, it would require only a little over four days to wipe the entire German Army from the face of the earth," said Colonel Milton A. Smith, of Carlisle, on Thursday in addressing the twentieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg at the residence of the Southern District Association of the Grand Army, in session in Cornwell, Sperry Place Room.

"In the three days at Gettysburg, the Union Army lost 25 per cent. of its men. In the greatest battle of the present European war, the Germans lost only 9 per cent. in a seven-days day fight. In one day's fighting it is being estimated that General McClellan lost one-fourth of his army."

"In the case of the destruction of property to the great war, now going on, it is appalling, the loss of life cannot say any compare with that which was suffered in the great battle of Gettysburg. It is a pity that we are not being taught any more."

Colonel Meade made the response to the toast of welcome which had been given by Dr. T. C. Billheimer on Thursday. Dr. Billheimer, of his speech the Carlisle Grand Army men refused to the charge sometimes made by the old veterans that they have their whiskey."

"We must temperate body of men in the land," he said. "Our very presence here proves it. If we were to get temperate three years would not see such a large gathering in Gettysburg today. It is true there are many who are not going to drink. There was such in arms, but they were less than the army of the victors for the last forty years."

The visiting veterans, representing Adams, North Carolina and Perry counties, with some from other parts of Southern Pennsylvania, gathered to the Post Room, Thursday in true martial style, a drill was given by the Boy Scout Troop, singing them and playing a song, "Civil War days as they proceeded to their place."

Mr. William T. Hagler, president of the association, was in the chair and conducted the meeting. After the opening address and the response, the first of the adjutant was read. It showed that, of the 141 who attended last year's meeting at Carlisle, only four had died during the year. The report that was considered remarkable. "We are the veterans of Gettysburg," William Lady and Calvin Hamilton. The quartermaster's report showed a balance in the treasury of $30.56. The report was accepted without comment.

Waynesboro was chosen for next year's meeting and John H. Harrison was chosen as the secretary. The president of the association was elected. All the other officers were re-elected. The remainder of the meeting was taken up with the report of the various corps.

First Day of Season Seen by Hunters in this Woods. Mountain Township Report that Poets are Numerous.

Gettysburg hunters in quest of game could be seen on Thursday in the murky shadows of an autumn dawn, wending their ways to thicket and plain of woodland in the vicinity of town. The squirrel season opened then and not a few of the sportsmen braved the dewdrops and disagreeable atmosphere to get an early start. The little animals are reported to be very plentiful in some sections and the hunting should be good.

The season opened Thursday for pheasants and some variety of quail. In the wooded sections of the western part of the county the pheasants are said to be more plentiful this year than in many years and residents were out in the woods in quest of the birds which make the very best kind of "meat." The rabbit season was not in the following.

Among the game which is now in season is the following: English, Mangolian, Chinese and rosy-breast pheasant, tin is one day, twenty in one week, thirty in one season.
